This is a review only. Nothing in your account was changed, updated, or deleted while putting this together. Everything below is just what we found when we looked.

The Short Version

We went through your contacts, deals, tags, and the extra info fields your system tracks, looking for duplicates and anything that looks off. Here's the quick summary before we get into the details.

6,352

Total customers/leads in your system

1,229

Total deals

117

Tags in use

37

Extra info fields

- Contacts: we found 62 groups of people who appear to be entered more than once (same email or same phone number used twice).
- Deals: we found 54 customers who currently have more than one active deal open at the same stage, likely accidental double-entries.
- Tags: no exact duplicate tag names, but several tags are doing the same job under slightly different names (more on this below).
- Extra info fields & saved values: no duplicates, but a few saved values are sitting empty and worth double-checking.

Nothing here is urgent or broken. Think of this as tidying-up opportunities, not problems. We're not recommending any changes be made without your go-ahead first.

1. Contacts (Your Customers & Leads)

You currently have 6,352 people saved in your system. We checked for people who might have been entered twice.

People involved

In plain terms: 144 entries across your contact list are likely the same person saved more than once, usually because they filled out a form twice, or called in after already being in the system. We also noticed 478 contacts have no email or phone number on file at all, which means there's no way to actually reach them.

If you'd like, the next step would be merging each of these groups into one record so you have a clean, single history for each customer. We'd only do that with your OK.

2. Deals (Opportunities)

You have 1,229 deals on the books. We checked for the same customer having more than one deal open at the same time, in the same stage, usually a sign the same lead got entered twice instead of updating the existing one.

Customers with duplicate open deals

Quick note on why this keeps happening: there's a setting in your account that currently allows more than one open deal per customer in the same pipeline. Turning that setting off would stop new duplicates like these from being created going forward. Happy to flip that switch if you'd like us to.

3. Tags

Tags are the labels your system uses to sort and track contacts (like "hot lead" or "google ads"). You have 117 tags in use. We didn't find any tag that's an exact duplicate of another, but we did find several tags doing the same job under different names, which makes reporting messier than it needs to be.

| What it's tracking        | Tags currently doing that job                                                          |
|---------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Google Ads leads          | google, google ads, google ads_exterior, google ads_homepage, google ads_strategy form |
| Facebook / Meta leads     | facebook, facebook ads, meta, meta ads, and 2 more variations                          |
| "Buy 1 Get 1" promo leads | b1g1_booking, b1g1_lp booking, buy 1 get 1 50% off                                     |
| "Buy 2 Get 1" promo leads | b2g1_booking, b2g1_lp booking, buy 2 get 1 free                                        |
| MyBlindCo (partner) leads | mbc, mbcimport, myblindco import, demo myblindco import                                |
| Hot / warm leads          | hot, hot lead, warm, warm lead                                                         |

None of this is broken, it just means when you pull a report on "how many Google Ads leads did we get," the answer might be split across 5 different tags instead of 1. Worth picking one name per category and merging the rest into it, again, only with your sign-off.

4. Extra Info Fields & Saved Values

Beyond the basics (name, phone, email), your system tracks 37 extra info fields (things like "how many windows," "budget range," or "which service are they interested in"). No duplicates here, every field is unique. We also checked your 9 saved values (reusable snippets your automations pull from, like your business phone number).

| Saved Value       | What's in it               | Status         |
|-------------------|----------------------------|----------------|
| GHL_API_KEY       | nothing saved yet          | Worth checking |
| GHL_LOCATION_ID   | nothing saved yet          | Worth checking |
| Appt User_Erica   | TWVErica                   | Good           |
| Appt User_Justin  | TWVJustin                  | Good           |
| Business Phone    | +1 317-999-5154            | Good           |
| Business Name     | The Window Valet           | Good           |
| Business Email    | service@thewindowvalet.com | Good           |
| contact_id        | nothing saved yet          | Worth checking |
| appt_arrival_time | nothing saved yet          | Worth checking |

Four of these are currently empty. Two of them (labeled like login-type info) look like they might be leftover from a setup that was never finished. Worth a quick check with whoever set those up. The other two are likely fine as-is, since some saved values are only meant to fill in automatically while an automation is running.

5. A Quick Word on Your Automations

We're doing a separate, much deeper review of your automations (the behind-the-scenes steps that follow up with leads, book appointments, etc.) and delivering that as its own report. A couple of quick account-level notes worth mentioning here:

- You have 77 automations total, and 47 of them are sitting as unfinished drafts rather than fully turned on. Not a problem by itself, but worth a look to see which ones are still needed.
- We noticed 5 automations exist as two copies each (an old draft version sitting next to the current one), safe to clean up once confirmed which copy is the one actually in use.

Full detail on what's working well, what's not, and what we'd recommend simplifying is in the separate Workflow Automation Audit.

This report reflects a read-only review of your GoHighLevel account as of August 17, 2026. No records were created, changed, or deleted while preparing it. Any next steps mentioned above would only happen with your approval.
